It is the same kind of thinking that is used to manipulate the general public and to control the political action within the United States. Any time someone is saying that teenagers and children should be taught how to think rationally, I will believe them. But only to the extent that they are talking about limiting the amount of information that can be factually available to them.If you feel that politics, the government and economics is depressing the "chop" out of your life (is that possible?), try to stay away from political blogs and online news, or try to avoid leaving your computer in between posts and comments. I'm going to leave you with some music, just to take your mind off what is going on in politics. I'm not political, but I am disgusted by these days of hysteria over the word "terrorism." If you told me yesterday that the guy that we've been looking for for a month or more was a peace protester, I'd have been shocked. But because he's on the left, he must be a terrorist. It's ludicrous, and it's beginning to scare the crap out of me. Tuesday, February 11, 2005 Another victory for the big corporations is coming from President Bush, who won the right to keep secret the decisions made by the Food and Drug Administration. This means that even though the c6a93da74d
