The new theatrical cut of the band's classic 1971 album More has been released in multiple different formats and package configurations including the standard format of CD, 2 CD digipak, 2 LP picture disc and the special edition which is a 50th anniversary re-release of The Pink Floyd Experience in a 2 CD + DVD + book + 4 poster package (limited to 2500 copies). The original album was re-created with 27 different mixes using an original mix of the early recordings, and was commissioned by the surviving band members. This all new rendition of the album was mixed by Chris Thomas, who worked with the band on the outstanding rock opera album The Wall in 1982, and features none other than The Dark Side Of The Moon producer and keyboardist David Gilmour (vocals, guitars, acoustic guitar, and banjo) and Roger Waters (bass, vocals, guitar), who are joined by drummer Nick Mason on each track. The various edits of the album are presented side by side for your listening pleasure. The album features a score of original songs and songs taken from Floyd's live performances which were originally included on band's 4-CD set, Amused To Death, which is only available on vinyl. The High Resolution (CD, 2 CD digipak, 2 LP picture disc, 4 poster booklet) and the standard

(deluxe two inch, orange/pink/cream PVC A4 stock) and the LP has a unique, multi-colored cover featuring a unique "pink-to-blue" reverse look. The Pulse live footage was recorded on Oct. 20, 1994, at Earls Court in London while the band was on its Division Bell tour. The Blu-ray and DVD box sets will feature the original concert including a live performance of The Dark Side of the Moon in its entirety as well as music videos, concert-screen films, documentaries, tour-rehearsal footage and a 60-page booklet. The Pulse concert was filmed between 1994 and 1996 and features the band's special event performance of The Dark Side of the Moon at Earls Court in London on 20 October 1994. It was broadcast live on BBC2 with the air date of 31 January 1995, featuring a running time of 80 minutes, with the exact time taken being presented by Sir Paul McCartney in the introduction. Due to the popularity of the concert, the band decided to release a DVD version of the performance from this concert to supplement the UK release of the DVD box set.
